

One of the strengths of our American democracy is the existence of a diverse free press and media --- that bulwark is being threatened by the FCC move to allow monopolistic ownership of information media. I am vehemently opposed to such a monopoly and the insidious way that such an important policy decision was being made without public input. I urge that this change toward media conglomerates be checked.